THREE PRINCESSES ARE CHOSEN TO RIDE SIERRA MADRE'S FLOAT FOR THE TOURNAMENT OF ROSES PARADE — Heather Hall, Melanie Meinholz and Cindy Clark are the three Sierra Madre Rose Princesses chosen Saturday to ride the city's float in the Tournament of Roses Parade January 1. Twenty-six local girls entered the beauty and poise contest and sold $1450 worth of plastic roses during three weekends recently. The princesses were crowned with flower wreaths at Saturday's festivities.

Princesses Chosen At Coronation Dance

Three area women were chosen Rose Princesses out of 26 who entered the annual contest at Saturday evening's Coronation Dance. The dance was a first for the Rose Float committee this year.

Cindy Clark, 17, daughter of Don and Kathy Burke; Heather Hall, 16, daughter of Fire Chief Leonard and Shirley Hall; and Melanie Meinholz, 14, daughter of Klaus and Gisela Meinholz, all received flower garlands for their hair as their names were called.

All said they were "surprised," "excited," or "shocked," as they took their positions as winners who will ride on Sierra Madre's float in the Tournament of Roses Parade January 1, 1981.

Cindy attends Alverno High School where she is a senior. She was born in Hollywood and lived several years in Pasadena before moving to Sierra Madre where she has lived for five years.

She is in the National Honor Society, the California Scholarship Federation and is on the school's tennis team. Her hobbies are tennis, driving Malibu formula race cars, reading and needlepoint.

What would she like to be after college? A dentist. She plans to attend Cal Poly in Pomona or UCLA.

Heather was born in Sierra Madre at Sierra Madre Community Hospital and now attends Pasadena High School as a 10th grader. She is active in Sierra Madre Congregational Church.

Heather would like to become a model and plans to attend PCC following graduation from high school. She says she likes to cook, sew, embroider and read.

Melanie is the youngest princess at 14 and comes from San Gabriel where she was born. The family has lived in Sierra Madre for a year.

Melanie attends Alverno High School, also, and is a cheerleader at La Salle High School. She attends all the basketball, baseball, track and waterpolo events at La Salle because of her position as cheerleader.

This year Melanie won the title of Miss California Pre-Teen. She plans a modeling career in tandem with her secretarial career following attendance at PCC. She likes swimming and horseback riding.

Becky Garcia won a cash prize Saturday evening for selling over $200 in plastic roses in Sierra Madre during three weekends recently. All girls who participated in the Rose Princess competition sold the roses to supplement the Rose Float committee's fundraising activities. Girls brought in $1450 from the plastic rose sales.

PERRET-SCOPE:

by Gene Perret

Well, at last we know who shot J.R. Now the only other all-encompassing mystery that remains to be solved is who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder.

Kristin was the culprit and she's been punished severely. She's been sentenced to appear on another TV show.

Don't you love the audacity of the TV publicists? J.R. was having an affair with his wife's sister. He got her pregnant. Then he had her arrested as a prostitute and exiled from Dallas. So she shot him. CBS tells us next week's show will reveal the motive.

I don't think the question is "Who shot J.R.?"" but "Why did she miss so badly?"

Isn't that the injustice of television? A nice lady like Edith Bunker dies while J.R. winds up wth a flesh wound.

But 82 million viewers tuned into CBS to see who shot J.R. On the chance that he might be shot again, NBC and ABC are offering the entire cast free marksmanship lessons.

The show broke two records. It knocked the last episode of "The Fugitive" off as the all-time rating champion, and it's been officially established that J.R. Ewing has more enemies than Hitler.

Anybody could have shot him, In fact, when Kristin got to his outer office that night, she had to pick a number.

TV is getting too complicated. Any one of 15 people could have fired that shot. In the old days, when Bugs Bunny got shot at, you knew it was Elmer Fudd.

But now that we all know who shot J.R. we can turn our minds to more pressing questions of television. Like, was Dan Rather actually kidnapped by that cab driver or just a lousy tipper?

. . . . Will Ed McMahon ever hear a Johnny Carson joke he doesn't think is funny?

. . . . Will Brooke Shields ever be able to walk again after doing those Calvin Klein commercials?

Old City Hall — Site Reconstruction

Old City Hall To Be Converted

City Council Rules For Restaurant

After months of consideration, the Sierra Madre City Council has authorized the sale of the old city hall. But the parking questions that have arisen as a result of such consideration remain to be decided before the sale closes.

The council formally authorized the sale, at Tuesday night's regular meeting, to Bergen Corporation for $222,000. The purchaser, which intends to convert the building into a restaurant and shopping arcade, is to provide at least 72 parking spaces within 50 yards of the building.

In authorizing the sale, the council instructed City Administrator James McRea to initiate an Environmental Impact Report (EIR) on the parking question to be ready before the sale is consummated — probably within 60 days.

The approval process was almost anticlimactic after the more than eight months of considering the offer of Bergen Corporation. Only one resident, Dan Parker, spoke up at the meeting relative to the transaction.

As chairman of the Cultural Heritage Commission, he expressed concern that the front of the building will be altered from its present appearance.

Parker said, "We had assurance from the City Council that the front would not be changed." That there was any such assurance was denied by some members of the council. Mayor Corp noted the Disposition Development Agreement provides only that the developer will retain "at least 50% of the existing structure."

After passage of the resolution approving disposition of the building, Brent Bergh, president of the purchasing corporation, assured the council he will work with it and the Cultural Heritage Commission in rebuilding and improving the building.

A citizens' drive to add on to the Sierra Madre Public Library received the support of the council. Paul Clifton, head of the group pushing for additional space, presented a brief slide show to the council and those in attendance at the meeting

Library Requests $50,000 Addition

Pointing out the need for space for additional books and improved work space for the library staff, the Sierra Madre Room Committee under the chairmanship of Paul Clifton received approval from the City Council to conduct a compaign to raise $50,000 to expand the library.

Clifton explained that the present space limits the library collection to 49,000 volumes only. Space to process new books and clean and repair the existing collection is very restricted, he stated.

Clifton said that as many as five people must work in a small area behind the counter or in a storage room that has no ventilation. He also noted that the city librarian must share her office with her secretary under the present arrangements. When the librarian is in conference or on the phone the secretary must leave the room.

The "Sierra Madre Room" will provide space for the California Collection including books about Sierra Madre and other cities in the San Gabriel Valley. It will also house the rare book collection.

The addition of space for the librarian, secretary, and delivery and receiving will improve the efficiency of the library.

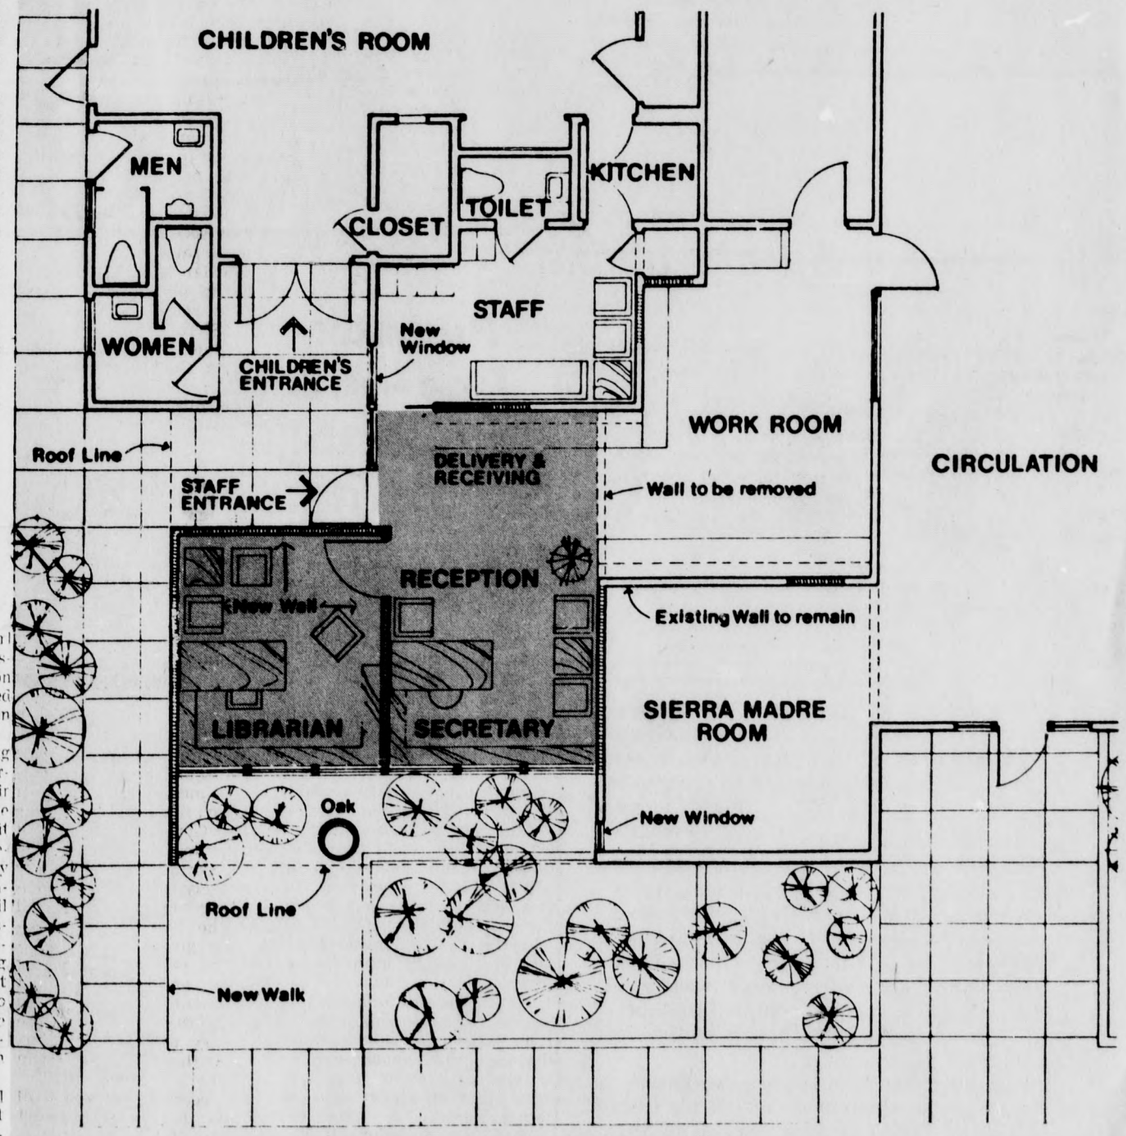

It was pointed out that the Sierra Madre Library not only provides a substantial collection of books and magazines but through participation in the Metropolitan Cooperative Library System the resources of 28 area libraries are available locally.

The library serves also as a cultural center providing monthly travel programs, musical programs and special events for the young people.

The Sierra Madre Room Committee includes, in addition to Paul Clifton, chairman, the following: Stan Hutchinson; Richard Hartley; Betty Ryder, library trustee; and Sylvia Bolle, vice-president of the Friends of the Library.

A breakdown of the total cost projected for the library's addition includes: demolition - removal, $800; permits, $700; concrete footings and slab, $1000; new partitions and walls, including finish, $2000; new roof including structure, $2000; brick veneer, $2700; new ceilings, $1500; windows, $3000; doors, $900; carpet, $1200; miscellaneous patch - refinish, $2500; plaster soffits, $700; heating and air conditioning (addition only), $1500; electrical, $3000; site work of walks and land-

Public Meeting December 2

Sierra Mesa Future

Pasadena School Board officials will meet with Sierra Madre City Council members December 2 in an adjourned meeting from the November 25 meeting to discuss the future of Sierra Mesa School, the vacant school building in Sierra Madre.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting is open to the public.

Maranatha Christian School is one of the schools investigating the possibility of moving into the Sierra Madre facilities, and the Christian school principal, Bill McKinley, said Tuesday morning, "We're interested."

McKinley went on, "I recognize there are some problems that have to be resolved. I'm not sure where the situation is between Pasadena and Sierra Madre. While we have extreme interest (in Sierra Mesa), it is best for us to stay out of the forefront. We don't want to get into any third party situation. We're taking a step at a time . . . . We have been encouraged by comments from citizens from Sierra Madre . . . If it works out, we want to be an integral part of the community (of Sierra Madre)."

McKinley and Vice-Principal Ken Cronquist were in Sierra Madre Tuesday, and according to the principal, the non-denominational Christian high school has 350 students in grades nine through 12.

He stated, however, that theologically it is Evangelical protestant.

They are now located at Santa Anita and Colorado in Arcadia and have "simply run out of room with not enough facilities," according to McKinley.

A week ago, at the Pasadena Unified School District's Board of Education special meeting, the possible sale of Sierra Mesa School for a residential development or lease of the facilities were debated.

Institutional Management Consultants, the consulting firm hired by the board to review the Sierra Mesa site and other surplus sites owned by the school district, formally recommended to the board that the school be-

Suffolk Condo Project OK'd

A condominium project exceeding $1 million may be in store for Sierra Madre.

The Sierra Madre Planning Commission, at its regular monthly meeting last Thursday, passed unanimously motions necessary to recommend to the City Council approving construction of the eight-unit condo project at 29 and 37 Suffolk Avenue in Sierra Madre.

Developing the project is J. E. Plount and Company of San Gabriel.

John Plount, representing the developer, estimated the cost of the individual units at $140,000 to $150,000. He also indicated that his brother, Phil Plount, also connected with the developer, would be purchasing one of the units and moving to Sierra Madre.

Only one resident appeared at the meeting to speak to the commission regarding the project. Carl Sigmund told the commission he owned property on the east side of the proposed project and that he was in favor of it.

Members of the Planning Commission spent sonsiderable time discussing their role in the review of the City's General Plan as it relates to the housing element portion thereof. They ultimately approved recommending to the City Council that the Planning Commission be given sole responsibility to review the housing element and to suggest amendments as needed to correct the zoning where necessary with initial priority on the South Baldwin corridor.

The recommendation will also ask the council to direct the City Hall staff to furnish as much professional assistance as possible.

Sierra Madrean Arrested After Wife Is Slain

Sierra Madre police officers reported that a Sierra Madre man has been booked on suspicion of homicide following the death of his wife, Judy Henderson, by a single bullet at about 4:40 p.m. Saturday. She was dead when police arrived.

Roger Henderson, 44, was arrested late Saturday on suspicion of homicide.

The scene of the tragedy is the 100 block of Suffolk where officers were called by a witness who heard a single shot, went up to the apartment and found the 38-year-old victim.

There was an apparent quarrel between the two individuals, a struggle with the weapon which resulted in the gun discharging. The gun had been in Mrs. Henderson's possession.

Police found a .22-caliber pistol lying on a countertop and Henderson still sitting in a chair.

Henderson was taken to Los Angeles County Jail and was to be arraigned this week in court and bail was to be set.

Sergeant Wayne Bailey and Officer John Cordischi of the Sierra Madre Police Department investigated along with L.A. County homicide officers.

Thank You, Sierra Madre

The new Sierra Madre News is nearing the end of its second month of publication and we are still overwhelmed by the support and kindnesses of the people of Sierra Madre.

Whenever we're out on the street or at a function, people are hailing us a welcoming "hello" and making complimentary remarks about the changes we've made.

Without you Sierra Madreans we wouldn't be here.

Clean flags flying

Recently while cleaning out some of the memorabilia in the back shop of the News we discovered a very dirty and weary U.S. flag. So we took the flag to the Pantorium with several other items that needed cleaning.

When we went back to pick up the items, the cleaning establishment refused payment for cleaning the flag. "We clean all U.S. flags free," they said. And our sparkling flag flies on every national holiday, thanks to Pantorium.

Speaking of flags, Gordon Baker Lloyd last week bought four new flags to fly on the four corners of the center of town at Kersting, Baldwin and Sierra Madre Boulevard. Now all we need are some volunteers to climb the flag poles and install the new red-white-and-blues.

As chuckles grow, chairs get lower

We're thinking about discontinuing "Perret-Scope" because we keep falling off our chairs laughing. Someone might get hurt.

When the original copy comes into the Sierra Madre News office, your editor chuckles, falls off her chair, and calls her husband to read him the quips. He falls off his chair.

When the copy goes back to George for typesetting, there's lots of chuckling over the noise of the Linotype machines. And he falls off his chair.

When the first proof comes out, the editor gets to read it again and finds double entendres she didn't find before. She falls off her chair again. Then she shares some of the quips with others in the office. They fall off their chairs laughing.

Corrected galleys go back to George who also finds funny sections he missed before. And you know what he does — yes, falls off his chair again.

Second proofing brings more chuckles and more falling noises, and then final copy is read just before the paper is run. More fall off their chairs.

We have two choices: get lower chairs (so we don't have so far to fall) or discontinue Gene Perret's very funny column on the front page, "Perret-Scope."

We have sawed off the legs on all our chairs.

The Sierra Madre News is joining with the Civic Club and Kiwanis Club to bring you, live and in person, the author of "Perret-Scope" on January 31. Save that evening in your schedule.

Thanks for Sarah, Jim...

We want to give thanks, too, for Sarah Madre, our wild little girl who is half sage psychiatrist and half wide-eyed child.

Jim Korkis continues each week to present life through the eyes of this child who today takes a friendly jab at her dad's cooking. She gives thanks that he didn't cook the family turkey and that she's not a turkey today.

Indeed she's not a turkey but a clever little curly-headed pixie whose remarks indicate her knowledge of the world and its inhabitants.

Moon Treaty On Horizon – Prof

The United States could take a giant legal step for mankind by ratifying a proposed "moon treaty" a USC professor says.

"Space law is an idea whose time has come, and star wars may be avoided if we can extend international law into outer space," says Carl Q. Christol, professor of international law and political science.

Christol is conducting an extensive study of the proposed treaty — formally known as the 1979 Agreement Governing the Activities on the Moon and Other Celestial Bodies — which was produced by the United Nations Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space.

Neither the United States nor the Soviet Union has ratified the treaty. As Christol points out, political conflicts here on earth — most notably the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan — have stalled negotiations between the two countries.

Christol believes that national self-interest compels the United States to proceed with ratification. "The Treaty would allow nations to use the moon and its resources, but it would prevent any one country from establishing national sovereignty over territory on the lunar surface," he explains.

Private enterprises, such as mining companies and scientific organizations, could make use of, and even derive profit from, the moon's natural riches, but none could claim ownership of land there, Christol says. An individual who wants to exploit lunar resources could do so as a user, but would have no property rights.

The treaty also lays the groundwork for environmental protection of the moon and opens established U.N. channels for the resolution of disputes involving celestial bodies.

Join VITA – Help Others With Taxes

If you enjoy helping people and want to learn how to prepare simple tax returns, VITA may be for you. VITA, the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service, is looking for volunteers to staff an estimated 400 VITA centers in Southern California.

VITA volunteers assist low income, handicapped, and non-English speaking individuals in the preparation of their tax returns. The volunteers reach out to people by explaining special credits and deductions for which they may qualify.

According to John Miller, the Los Angeles District Taxpayer Education Coordinator for the VITA program, the IRS needs over 4000 volunteers to make this year's program a success.

Each assistor will attend 32 hours of classroom instruction taught by technicians from the IRS and the California State Franchise Tax Board. The classes will be held during January at various locations to accommodate the needs of the volunteers. No specific experience is required to participate and all materials are provided free by the IRS.

After assistors complete their training, they will be asked to spend at least four hours each week during the income tax filing season working in a VITA center near their home. Last year more than 80,000 individuals were aided in the preparation of their tax forms.

Various community service organizations throughout the area work closely with the IRS in recruiting volunteers and establishing VITA centers.

For more information on how to volunteer, individuals in the Los Angeles area may call 572-7814.

CAT Scanner Installed At Methodist Hospital

A CT scanner (Computerized Tomagraphy) has been installed in the Radiology department of Methodist Hospital of Southern California. This very specialized piece of equipment is a tremendous adjunct to diagnosis and in addition has proved to be a valuable tool for determining immediate treatment for head injuries brought through the Emergency Room.

The CT scanner provides a picture of the head and brain. This type of scanning is an essential part of care for patients with brain damage, injury or disease. It can be used to examine patients who have suffered a stroke or to determine possible brain cancer. In addition, emergency department patients with head injuries can often be studied simply and more quickly than by using conventional methods.

The computed tomogram represents a mathematical reconstruction of the brain. Simply stated, the scanner is a head x-ray unit which makes an arc (half-circle) behind the patient's head. The x-ray beam emitted is measured by sensitive detectors.

A series of pictures form to complete an image of the brain from base to the top of the skull. These calculations create a picture on a television tube and a special camera takes a picture of the TV image.

A CT test is frequently far less complicated than some traditional x-ray studies, delivers a smaller amount of radiation and can be a great savings in time, discomfort and cost to Methodist Hospital patients.

Art Barn Exhibit

An exhibit by photographer Tom Grauman, entitled "Optimism (Boastings of an Ambitious Scavenger)," will be on display beginning today (Thursday) and going through Friday, December 5, in the Art Barn on the Occidental College Campus.

The public can view Grauman's newest exhibit weekdays from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sundays from noon to 5 p.m.

Register Tips—IRS

Vigorous enforcement efforts are being undertaken by the IRS to ensure that tip income is being reported. Recent studies reveal that large amounts of taxes are not being collected because some tip income is not being included on income tax returns.

Cab drivers, waiters, beauticians and other service-oriented employees should be aware that their tips are subject to income tax and must be included on their tax returns.

If you receive over $20 in tips in one month on one job, you must make a monthly report to your employer. If you split tips with your fellow employees, you need only include your share of the tips in your gross income. A daily record of your tips should be kept and all of the tips you earn should be reported on your tax return.

The IRS has a number of ways of checking unreported tips. One way is to examine a restaurant's books and records. Analysis of credit card purchases through the use of computers is also being expanded to determine if taxpayers are correctly reporting their income from tips.

Police Need Money

As a thirty year resident of Sierra Madre, property owner if you want to put it properly, I have had long association with our police force, to the extent that I have been in the homes and gardens of most of them and call them good friends.

The same has been true with some of my favorite officers over the years. They have done many a favor for me, and I am sure they have for you too. There is no such thing as a perfect police force, and I believe they would be the first to say so. But they perform a service in our town that is not recognized and more than often in the last several years have been "taken apart."

During the last few months I have seen our "old timers" leave and a new group take over. I decided to ask some questions and have come up with some rather amazing information.

First, we are apparently the lowest paid police force in the country. Street patrol officers generally have experience of 5 to 10 years and currently most of them are two years or under. I am talking about the "senior" force that carries the responsibility of good law enforcement.

I cannot help but wonder why our City hasn't taken interest in our force to see it maintains proper competitive income. Our officers have left our force and gone to other areas as "freshmen" earning often $200 a month more than they were in our service of a number of experienced years.

We take off with great fervor on the "old City Hall," and other projects but for some reason we have left these ladies and gentlemen who watch to our safety "go down the drain" so to speak.

And don't give me the bit of proposition 13 being at fault. Frankly I would like a good answer to this as a tax paying, voting citizen.

LOOKING FORWARD TO INTEREST/ CHECKING?

We've got two plans available now.

Some people like to keep all their money handy in a checking account. Other people like to keep a little money in their checking account and a lot of money in their savings account.

But almost everybody is looking forward to earning interest on the same money they use to write checks. So we've got two plans.

Our Premier Interest/ Checking Plan is free of monthly service charges with $1000 minimum.

Maintain a $1000 minimum balance in this plan, and you can have an Interest/Checking plan free of monthly service charges. You'll earn 5¼% annual interest on the same money you use to write checks.

Our Grand Interest/Checking Plan is free of monthly service charges with $1000 minimum.

Keep $1000 or more in your qualifying savings or time deposit account. You qualify for an Interest/Checking plan, free of monthly service charges paying 5¼% annual interest on any balance you maintain in your plan.

We've got two plans because people are different. But we've got one minimum that everybody can agree on. Our $1000 minimum is a lot less than a lot of financial institutions. And no bank or savings and loan pays a higher rate of interest.

With either plan, you can apply for a Combined Check and Charge Card (MasterCard™ or Visa®)/Ready Reserv-Account and Check Guarantee Card. And you can get either plan at any one of our over 590 offices all over California.

Right now, today, you can be earning interest on the same money you use to write checks. Come to Security Pacific Bank. We've got two different plans and one wonderful minimum. Because we're looking forward to serving people better.

Help from Gooden School

'Shower' Honors Fire Victims

Kate, Helen and Emma Vardon had a very pleasant surprise last Friday immediately following a sad shock the family received during the Bradbury fire when they lost their home with everything in it.

On their happy day, last week, the three Vardon girls were given a "shower" at Sierra Madre's Gooden School where all three attend school. Most of the 47 children in the private Episcopal-sponsored school brought something "they'd feel sad if they lost," according to Megan McKirahan, spokesperson for the school.

And an unbelievable wealth of gifts rained down upon the three girls in the form of dolls, games, books, book bags, soap, towels, skates, dresses, many stuffed animals. And kitchen items for Mrs. Vardon.

Headmaster Father Spencer Edwards led group singing while the three children, who have been in the United States for only a year, opened the mound of colorful boxes. And it was obvious that the girls could not find words momentarily for their early Christmas gifts.

Last Sunday, a week after their grandparents had arrived from England to visit the family over the holidays, after a night's vigil, the Vardons saw the bushes near their home catch fire. That was about 4 a.m. and they decided it was time to abandon their material things and get out with their lives.

They had no time to pack but got in their two cars, grabbed their passports, their dog Jess and left. They went to one of the first victim centers in Duarte and learned that theirs was one of the homes burned to the ground.

Nothing remained of all their keepsakes brought over from England a year ago when their father, James, took a job as a controller with Security Pacific Bank.

Their grandfather said of the fire, "It reminds me of the blitz."

Emma is 6 and is a first grader at Gooden School. Kate is 10 and a fifth grader, and Helen is 11, a sixth grader. The family is staying in an apartment in Sierra Madre until they decide what to do.

Whose idea was it to have a shower of joys and clothes for the girls? Toni Moran, president of Gooden School Parents' Association, started it and "moms called and organized it from there. The idea just evolved," according to McKirahan from Gooden School.

At this Thanksgiving time, the plight of the Vardons and all other fire victims brings the community closer to the basics of real Thanksgiving.

BRADBURY FIRE VICTIMS RECEIVE HELPFUL GIFTS — Kate, Helen and Emma Vardon admire gifts they received at last week's "shower" given them by schoolmates at Gooden School in Sierra Madre. 'Citizen of Year' Choice Requested

Its time for Sierra Madreans to be thinking about their choice for the Citizen of the Year for 1980.

Hugh Campbell, Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce chairman of the committee, urges all citizens to submit their choices to the Chamber of Commerce office by December 12 at 2 p.m.

Each year the board of directors of the chamber starts looking around for that one citizen who seems to have contributed the most to the community. His or her accomplishments must have been achieved during the year 1980.

The chamber board emphasizes that the vote is not one of popularity. The committee will be influenced by accomplishments which are described on the return ballot which will either arrive by mail or may be picked up at the chamber office.

Of course, the committee members remind the city, anyone's full-time job or any task for which a citizen receives monetary payment removes a possible candidate from qualifying for the honor.

Each member of the chamber plus civic and service organizations will be asked to recommend one person for the award. And any other citizen may request a form on which to offer his or her choice for "Citizen of the Year."

Sierra Madre Mayor Charles I. Corp will present the sterling silver bowl and engraved plaque to the "Citizen" at the installation dinner scheduled for the latter part of January, 1981, according to Campbell.

Citizens who have received the award and who will not be considered for the award this year or in future years are: Bill Wark, 1966, deceased; Ruth Barden, 1967; Carl Hobson, deceased, 1968; Janet Wood, 1969; Rudolph R. Hartman, 1970; Myrtis Waite, 1971; H. Clay Reavis, deceased, 1972; Earl W. La Lone, 1973; George A. Maurer, 1974; John Kenneth Goodall, 1975; Sam Tesoro, 1976; R. Robert Evans, 1977; Charles E. Sierra Madreans In Band Festival

Pasadena High School band came in fifth out of nine bands in Class A competition Saturday in the Savannah Field Competition in Anaheim with Sierra Madrean David Wickham as leader.

Deborah Sheppard, daughter of Bob and Bernice Sheppard, won third in "Tall Flag" competition. Duane Sheppard, Deborah's brother, is the drum major of the band.

Lisa Bartolai, daughter of Nina and Clem Bartolai, is also a member of the 80-member band. There are eight girls in "Tall Flags" and 30 on the drill team.

Fire Department Dance Has Raised $4500 So Far

Richard Mays,, fire department treasurer, reports that ticket sales and donations for the 59th annual Christmas Dance December 13 at St. Rita's O'Malley Hall are maintaining their traditional brisk rate.

Over $4500 has so far been received and the figure is expected to accelerate markedly during the first week of December when citizens seem most moved by the spirit of giving.

Since 1921 and the city's first fire department-sponsored Christmas-dance, residents have been big supporters of the gala, Sierra Madre's oldest social event, whose proceeds are used philanthropically.

Dance chairman Bob Spears says that money the city's volunteer fire department raises through the dance is donated to a wide variety of groups and causes.

He noted that the fire department sponsors a team in every one of the numerous city leagues and that during 1980 it purchased camping equipment for local boy-girl scout trips.

The department also prepares Christmas baskets for the poor and needy during the holidays. A portion of the dance funds also went toward the refurbishment of hospital wheel chairs.

Cholesterol Study at SC

"Image processing," a computer process developed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to analyze the first American spacecraft pictures of the moon, is being used by USC School of Medicine to analyze x-rays of major blood vessels (angiograms) as part of a national cholesterol-lowering study.

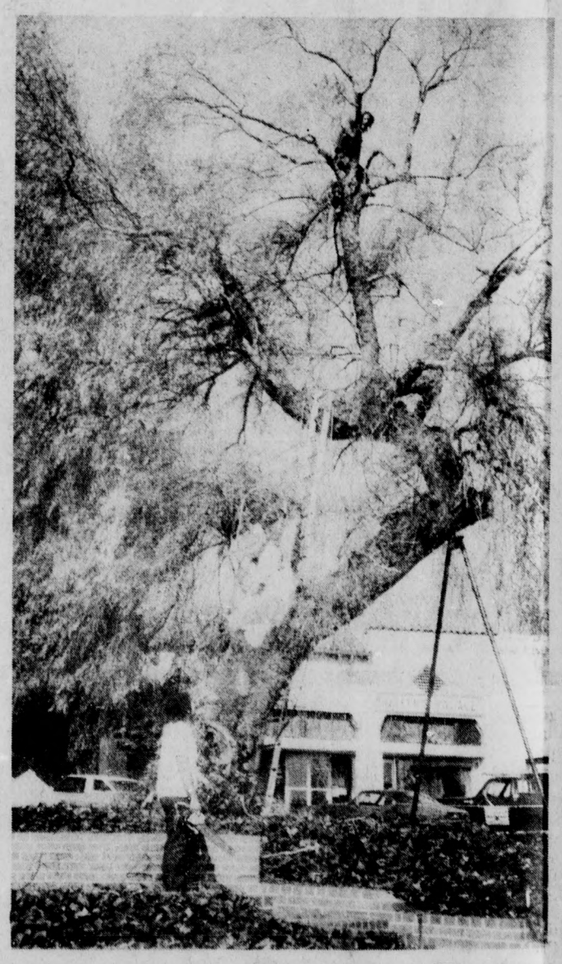

Patients who enter the study will be given three sequential angiograms, which will be analyzed by scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena. One-half of the patients will have had their cholesterol lowered by about 40% during the first year of the trial.

The study is presently recruiting heart attack patients from California and the Western United States.

Travel expense is reimbursed and accommodations are provided.

To be considered, you must have had a first and only heart attack during the last five years and be under age 65.

For further information please call the USC Study Center at 482-5011 collect.

LOCAL TREE SERVICE VOLUNTEERS DAY TO ASSIST STORM-DAMAGED PEPPER TREE — Danny Osti looks up at Rick Allor, his foreman and tree-trimmer, Saturday when both worked most of the day getting the storm-damaged pepper tree in town square in better shape. The 75-year-old tree was trimmed, shaped, cemented and put back together. The workers took nearly all day for their labors, voluntarily done for the city of Sierra Madre.

City Leaders Hear Talk On Obscenity

San Gabriel Valley Association of Cities members heard Sergeant Rafael Kenealy of the Vice Bureau of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Office explain that the business of pornography grosses close to $½ billion annually.

The meeting was held November 20 at a Rosemead restaurant.

"Pornography is big business because people are willing to pay for the product," he told the city councilmen and mayors from all over the San Gabriel Valley with Rosemead as host city.

"A majority of citizens want stricter and more effective laws," Kenealy stated and pointed his finger at criminal and civil law as the answer of how to address these concerns. Even the most casual observer can notice that the courts have offered "few if any silver bullets to fight the problem. The problem lies in proof needed for conviction."

What is obscenity? Kenealy explained that it must go beyond community standards and that it must be without social importance."

One in 36 cases have a chance of getting conviction, he reported. For example, he pointed to a State Supreme Court decision that mere nudity is not obscene.

Generally, he said, any municipal law is pre-empted in decisions but the court can make some distinctions, also.

Sierra Madre Test Scores Rise

Sierra Madre Elementary School fared quite well in the latest comparison between local schools and state norms, as was indicated in results brought out at Tuesday evening's Pasadena Unified School District board meeting.

Schools with the most academic growth from 1979 to 1980 in terms of net percentile rank increases, across all grade levels and subjects, by grade span, included Sierra Madre for K through third grade.

Achievement test results for the spring, 1980, testing program show that for the sixth consecutive year, the Pasadena Unified School District's scores have also continued to rise. The district rose one degree to the 54th percentile within a year, four points above the national average.

Actual ethnic results within the system showed that Hispanic students made the biggest jump from the 45th to 49th percentile while whites improved from the 69th to 72nd percentile and black pupils increased their scores from the 42nd to 44th percentile.

Other minorities, mainly Asians, climbed from 74th to 76th percentile, the top scores.

On the state test, however, district scores were often below or in the lower range, even though district scores generally increased slightly by subject.

The Sierra Madre Elementary School is included in the School Improvement Program, as well as the ESEA Title I State Compensatory Education (SCE) program with 270 students served.

Regarding parent participation, there were 3387 volunteer hours spent by 86 volunteers in the Sierra Madre school, far higher than any other school in the area.

Students in Grade K equaled the national average in all three subject areas — reading, language and mathematics — by scoring at the 50th percentile in reading and language and 58th in math.

Men's Slo-Pitch Shows Upsets, Temper Tantrums

The second week of the second round of play found two teams duking a pair of games apiece in the Men's Slo-Pitch League.

In the Monday league Ruths Awning was upset by the ever-improving Beerbellys, 12 - 5 and defeated by their chief rivals, the Hot Shots 7 - 5.

The Blue game saw the Fire Department win a game shortened by some unsportsmanlike conduct on the part of the Davis Leather team, 10 - 7.

Wednesday evening was a night to forget so far as the Reptiles were concerned. The number 3 figured in both their losing scores, 6 - 3 in the Machine in the first game and dropping the second game by three runs, 4 - 1 to the Shooters.

In the nightcap, a Hershey single in the third inning ignited a fourteen run rally as the Good Ole Boys slipped past the Cans.

Auxiliary Christmas Features Chinese Theme

The Sierra Madre Community Hospital Auxiliary's Chinese fortune cookie prediction is one featuring a Christmas exchange and a New Year of dreams coming true. This is in keeping with the Oriental theme the group will have for its Christmas luncheon, to be held at a nearby Chinese restaurant Thursday, December 4 with festivities getting underway at 11:30 a.m.

Marian Adkins, activity director for the auxiliary, is luncheon chairman. President Alice Fleshman will greet members and guests. Miriam Kirkland, who along with her husband William are avid world travelers, will present a slide program on their recent trip to Red China.

There will be a very brief business meeting with the important business being the presentation of the slate of officers or 1981 by the nominating committee. The program will end with the traditional Christmas gift exchange.

Mary Morris, reservations chairman, 355-1968, is taking reservations.

Pasadena Harvest Days Show Christmas Gifts

This Thanksgiving weekend, the Pasadena Center will be the scene of the Pasadena Harvest Celebration and Christmas Crafts Market. This event will feature arts and crafts exhibits with thousands of handmade items for sale as well as continuous live music and entertainment.

At the top of the amusement bill are two country music ensembles. "Canyon Grass" plays traditional Bluegrass tunes and "Sweet Temptation" will put on a country-rock show. The two bands will perform in the evening from 6 to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and from 2:30 to 7 p.m. on Sunday.

For the children, and young-at-heart, puppeteer Nancy Mitchell of Sierra Madre will be performing during the morning and early afternoon. Mitchell is a one-woman marionette and ventriloquist show who performs at fairs and schools throughout the United States.

A mime troupe from Cal State Northridge, with deaf and hearing students performing, will be strolling through the market for the enjoyment of shoppers.

Christmas shoppers can save up to 50% by buying from the artist or craftsperson directly. With prices in the $5 to $25 range, this Christmas Crafts Market will be a source of many unique bargains.

The market will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, November 28 and 29, and from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sunday, November 30.

Bottle Gardens Make Christmas Presents

Terrariums or bottle gardens make great Christmas presents and are easy to make, says Ray Hasek, UC Davis environmental horticulturist.

A fishbowl, brandy snifter, aquarium, five-gallon water bottle or a one-gallon wine bottle make good containers. You will need soil, charcoal, pebbles or crushed clay pots, small plants and decorative pieces such as stones and pieces of wood.

Most any small plants will do, and for starters, he recommends maidenhair ferns, baby tears, dwarf palm, dwarf dracaenas, or lycopodum moss. A small croton or ti plant will add color. Whatever plants you decide on, they should all require about the same amount of light and water.

Add one inch of pebbles or broken clay to the bottom of your container. Rather than just dropping them in, Hasek says to make a funnel out of paper or foil, then slide the stones down this cone. This layer will enable you to see how much water is in the bottom; too much can cause root rot.

Sprinkle ¼ inch of charcoal over the top of the stone layer. Charcoal briquets can be crushed for this purpose, or you can buy charcoal at a nursery. This layer absorbs odors. Next add one to three inches of sterilized potting soil.

To water, simply suck water up a straw and hold your finger on top when the straw is filled. Water will stay there until you put it inside the jar near the plant. A few drops is sufficient, says Hasek.

Now add rocks, pieces of wood or moss — anything you think will make the landscape more beautiful. Take a look; you have created a garden that will be beautiful for months to come.

'Vial of Life' Offered Free to Community

A free "Vial of Life" will be available by December 1 at the senior citizen center for anyone who would like one, according to Dick Hartley, chairman of the Senior Citizen Commission.

The group met last week instead of the usual fourth Thursday because of the Thanksgiving holiday. Next month's meeting will also be on December 18, the third Thursday.

Hartley explains that the "Vial of Life" could easily save lives in the community. It is a small plastic vial in which Sierra Madreans place pertinent health information such as chronic illnesses, medication and allergies. This vital information would be necessary in case of illness.

The vial is placed in the family refrigerator. A sticker notifying medical officials where the vial is located is placed on the outside of the refrigerator. Any medical technicians or doctors entering the home and finding a person ill would know that the sticker on the refrigerator door indicates the "Vial of Life" within the refrigerator.

All pertinent medical information would therefore be immediately available and that information could easily save the victim's life.

Hartley also explains that volunteers are being sought to assist in the Seniors Nutritional Activity Program. Volunteers are needed to transport the food for a daily meal, from the central distribution locations in Monrovia and Pasadena.

Hartley explained that SNAP is a federally-funded program under the management of the Foothill Area Community Services in Pasadena. At SNAP sites meals are arranged for serving to seniors at noon.

About 530 meals are served at eight area SNAP sites each day with another 100 meals being delivered to shut-ins living in SNAP site areas.

None of the eight SNAP sites is funded to deliver to Sierra Madre, and of course, Hartley points out, that is the need for the volunteers.

Hartley reports that Carol Jorgensen, one of the senior commissioners, has volunteered to help anyone who needs assistance with Medicare or other supplemental health insurance forms.

She will begin her assistance Tuesday, January 13 from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. at the senior center. There will be more information on this volunteer service in a later issue of the News.

Annual Poster Contest For Children, Youths

The National Council of State Garden Clubs has announced the beginning of the 1981 "Smoky Bear and Woodsy Owl Environmental Poster Contest."

The contest is designed to increase conservation awareness, and is sponsored in cooperation with the Forest Service, USDA, and State Foresters. Developed principally for youngsters in school, the contest is open to everyone.

There are five competitive divisions: kindergarten - 2nd grade; 3rd - 5th grade; 6th - 8th grade; 9th - 12th grade; above 12th grade.

Posters should be based on an environmental theme and can be prepared using any art medium. Posters should not be larger than 12 by 18 inches. The artist's name, grade (or age) and home address should be printed in the lower right-hand corner on the back of each entry.

Entries will be judged on originality, design, slogan, artwork and over-all effectiveness of the message.

Entries should be mailed by January 5, 1981, to: Mrs. Edward Myck, State Poster Contest Chairman, 2995 Seahorse Avenue, Ventura, CA 93001.

National winners will be announced at the 1981 Convention of the National Council of State Garden Clubs. For the past two years a California contestant has placed high in the contest. The 1980 6th - 8th grade participant was the national winner in her class.

Teachers Workshop Planned at Cal State

"Teachers Workshop: The Los Angeles Bicentennial in the Classroom," a program co-sponsored by the Los Angeles 200 Committee and the School of Education at Cal State L.A., will be presented there Saturday, December 6.

The program will provide an overview of Los Angeles history as well as a survey of classroom strategies designed to highlight the 200th birthday of the city. Various materials will be available, including reading lists and resource guides.

The program coordinator is Gloria Ricci Lothrop, Ph.D., professor of history, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, and executive vice-chairman, Los Angeles 200 Education Committee.

The workshop will be held from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Cal State L.A. in the University - Student Union, Room 313. One quarter unit continuing Education credit (Education X898) is available for an additional fee of $12.50.

For registration information, call the Cal State L.A. Office of Continuing Education 224 3501.

Arboretum Receives $35,000 Grant

The Los Angeles State and County Arboretum in Arcadia has been awarded a $35,000 grant from the Institute of Museum Services to complete a computerized plant inventory management system and to set up a gardener internship program in cooperation with the Los Angeles Unified School District.

Francis Ching, director, said that when the new computer system is fully implemented, scientific and horticultural information on the plant collection at the Arboretum will be more readily accessible to both the public and to professionals in the plant industry.

At the present time, information on the 29,000 plants growing on the Arboretum grounds is maintained in a massive card file system in the plant records office. To ascertain when a plant was added to the collection, its bloom period, and its adaptability to the Southern California climate, the cards must be searched manually by the plant recorder. This service is not available to casual Arboretum visitors.

When the new system is in operation, however, a home gardener or a botanist can simply refer to the computer printout to locate any plant on the grounds and at the same time learn at a glance the same information currently stored only in the card file.

The system, operated through the Los Angeles County Data Processing Department, will contain plant data organized under seven different programs.

Senior Conference at UCS

All senior citizens and others who have participated in local "Community Forums on Aging" are being urged to register to attend the 1981 Los Angeles City - County Regional White House Conference on Aging.

The conference is scheduled to be held on January 24, 1981 at USC.

The Los Angeles City - Council Regional Coordinating Committee (RCC) states that delegates will be elected from among conference participants to attend the California State House Conference on Aging, to be held in April of 1981. It is likely that some of these delegates will ultimately be among those who will attend the 1981 White House Conference on Aging in Washington, D.C.

According to the RCC, response to its earlier call for local "Community Forums on Aging" has been overwhelming. Over 170 local forums have been held throughout Los Angeles City and County, with participation ranging from five in some Forums to well over 250 in others.

Registration forms and further information regarding the 1981 Los Angeles City - County Regional White House Conference on Aging may be obtained by calling 738-3281.

Pasadena Church

Saturday morning music classes are now offered through the Kirk Conservatory of Music at Pasadena Presbyterian Church, a pilot music instruction program open to the community.

The 50-minute classes of no more than 10 - 15 student per class are open to children and pre-teenagers 3 - 4 years, 5 - 7 years, 7 - 9 years and 9 - 12 years.

Classes are taught by Orff specialist Karen Tinkham, youth choir director at Pasadena Presbyterian Church. Tinkham is a graduate of Westminster Choir College, Princeton, New Jersey. Her master's degree specialization is in the Orff - Schulwerk music education method.

The first semester ends February 14, 1981.

PERSIMMON BREAD IS IN SEASON. ASK JOSH — Josh Allen is visiting his grandparents, Marian and Jerry Adkins, and has been watching his grandmother in her persimmon bread-making days. His help consists of eating the warm bread straight out of the oven.

Persimmon Season Special Holiday Bread

Grandson Josh Allen of Mammoth knows a good thing when he sees it and that's when Marian Adkins, his grandmother, makes persimmon bread. The recipe is the best of its kind and it follows.

Persimmon Bread

1 c. shortening	2 t. baking soda
1 box dark brown sugar	2 t. cloves
4 eggs	½ t. salt
2 c. liquid	4 t. cinnamon
4 c. flour (preferably whole wheat)	1 t. nutmeg
	4 persimmons

Cream shortening and brown sugar. Add eggs and mix, then add liquid such as water, orange juice or apple juice and stir. Add pulp of four medium-sized persimmons. Bake at 350 degrees for one-and-a-half hours.

This recipe makes two loaves. You'll have only one left if Josh is around for long.

Charming Booklet At Huntington

Everyone knows Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers, but not many people know Lanky Lawrence lost his Lass and Lobster or Davy Dolldrum dream'd he drove a Dragon. Peter and Lawrence and Davy are characters in a charming small booklet for children just published by the Huntington Library.

"Peter Piper's Principles of Plain and Perfect Pronunciation" was first published anonymously in England in 1913, according to Cary S. Bliss, curator of rare books. The booklet contained four-line, tongue-twisting stanzas using all the letters of the alphabet, each with a colorful illustration.

In 1836, Willard Johnson published an edition of "Peter Piper" in Philadelphia with hand-colored woodcut illustrations. The current publication is a facsimile of the 1836 edition. According to Bliss, only seven copies of this American edition are known to exist, and the Huntington has the only copy in the western United States.

The preface urged "Parents to Purchase this Playful Performance . . . Principally to Prevent the Pernicious Prevalence of Perverse Pronunciation." Modern readers may prefer the whimsey of such lines as, "where's the dragon Davy Dolldrum dream' he drove?"

Carter Slides Shown At December 1 Meeting

The members of the Sierra Madre Historical Society are in for a rare treat at their regular monthly meeting next Monday evening, December 1. Glass slides taken by Nathaniel Carter will be shown on the original kerosene stereopticon that was used by Carter.

These slides are of early Sierra Madre and surrounding areas. The stereopticon and the camera that was used to take the slides were donated to the Historical society by Rudolph Hartman and are usually on display at Lizzie's Trail Inn, which is one of the museums restored and maintained by the society.

Charlie Peterson has been working on the stereopticon so that it can be operated with kerosene and he will run it for the program. The narration will be given by Marjorie Peterson, a recent president of the society and presently Centennial chairman of both the society and the city of Sierra Madre.

An added treat will be a visit by the three Sierra Madre Rose Princesses. To celebrate the holiday season refreshments will be served following the program.

The society meets on the first Monday of each month at Essick House, 550 West Sierra Madre Boulevard, at 7:30 p.m. and members and guests are always welcome.

Lizzie's Trail Inn and Richardson House, located at the corner of Mt. Wilson Trail and Mira Monte, are open to the public each Sunday afternoon from 1 to 4 p.m.

How to Carve Your Turkey

The days grow short; a nippy chill is in the air. You don't have to check your calendar to know what this all means: it's coming on Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's, the most festive and feast-laden time of the year.

The carvers of the holiday repast's turkey, who wield the knife may find carving a difficult, complex, indeed intimidating experience. They are slaves to their turkeys, not master of them.

According to internationally noted Chef Rolf Jung, such anxiety is totally unnecessary.

The following are Chef Jung's easy-to-follow steps and suggestions: the ingredients for a perfect and perfectly carved holiday turkey feast are few — one beautifully roasted turkey; large platter or cutting board; a serving plate; a long two-tined fork, and a good, rapier-sharp knife.

Jung emphasizes that good steel cutlery is a must investment that is money well spent. He is his own best example — still relying upon a steel knife that he acquired 27 years ago, during his apprenticeship. He expects the knife will last at least as many years to come.

"Hold the knife at a 45-degree angle and just slide it along, away from you. A knife is a dangerous thing; never out toward yourself."

The chef is of the "slow roasting" school. He starts his turkey at 375 degrees and, after 30 minutes, turns the heat down to 275 degrees. Approximately four hours later, a 20-pound, unstuffed turkey emerges from the oven marvelously moist, firm and juicy, with a perfectly brown skin.

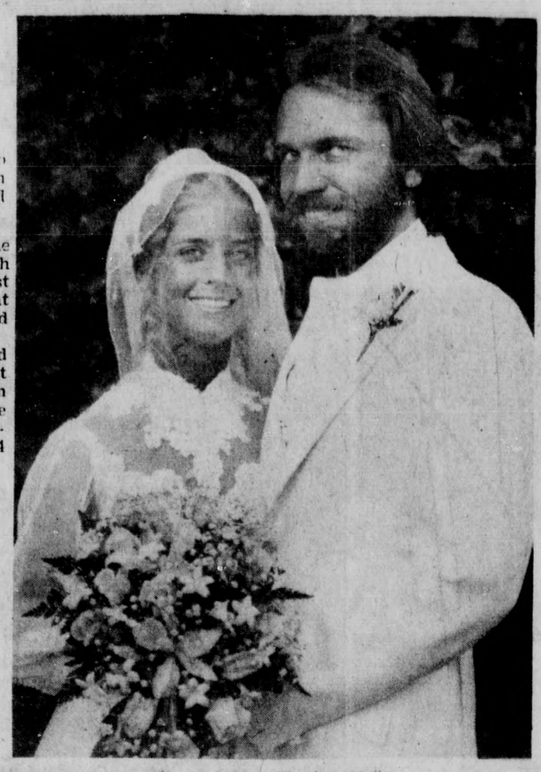

After removing the turkey from the oven, Jung allows it to "rest" for as long as 20 minutes before carving.

The turkey is centered on a large cutting board or platter, breast side up. With easy, horizontal glides, Jung slices the meat on either side of the breastbone.

Jung next tackles the drumsticks, grasping a drumstick at the end of the bone, gently pull it away from the body and make a small incision at the joint. Jung then pulls and twists the drumstick, exposing a tendon that is neatly severed. The drumstick has virtually "rolled away" to his hand.

Jung next turns his attention to the thigh, neatly slicing the fleshy part from the bird. Finally he turns to the wings. The serving platter is full.

The carving has taken less than 10 minutes and not a morsel of turkey has been wasted. There is still plenty of meat on the bones for midnight nibbling, not to mention left-overs

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mellon

Valley Couple Wed Recently

Lori Lee Gelalich and Charles William Mellon were married September 6 at San Marino Community Church with Dr. Bernard Johnson officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles W. Kaufmann of Dallas, Texas, and Francis E. Gelalich of San Gabriel. The bridegroom is the son of the late Elsie Mellon and Charles W. Mellon of Garden Grove.

Honor attendants were Cynthia Gelalich, Pasadena, sister of the bride, and Edward Davis, Alta.

The couple honeymooned at Las Brisas in Acapulco and are now at home in Huntington Beach.

Bob Duer, one of our local EMT and fire department laddies, recently attended the National Fire Academy in Emmetsburg, Maryland, for a Fire Arson Detection seminar. This is a federally-funded fire school and was held on the old Mt. St. Mary's college campus. Bob then went to Washington, D.C. for a sightseeing weekend.

It is good to see our honorary fire chief Charlie Brown and Ruth in for lunch and - or dinner. They are busy with their hideaway in Lytell Creek these days. Charlie is still walking daily and looks "fit as a fiddle."

Did you know that John Marsh is rebuilding the Shrine at the Church of the Ascension? Wife Sarah is the second and third grade teacher at the Gooden School.

Earl and Esther Lingle of the Lingle Brothers Coffee family stopped by recently for a late night supper and to have a cup of their delicious coffee, ground fresh every pot.

Mike and Dorothy Bachwansky are faithful patrons. Mike retired as our local barber but I'm sure he wishes he could get his scissors busy again. He could take care of the second generation.

A popular menu item has been our CHILI TOSTADA, a crisp corn tortilla covered with lettuce and tomatoes, chili and beans and topped with shredded Cheddar cheese. Ole!

Republic Savings Appointments

Republic Federal Savings announces the appointment of Stuart Goodman as branch manager of Republic's new central Pasadena office. The new branch on Lake Avenue is scheduled to open January 2.

Goodman brings over 12 years of financial experience to his new job with Republic Federal. He served as an administrative officer for Union Bank, with responsibility for seven of its operating departments.

Republic Federal Savings also announces the appointment of Suzanne "Sue" Hartmann to "NOW" Account Operations Officer in Republic's Altadena headquarters office. She will have responsibility for administration of the many new CHEK/IN interest - bearing checking accounts anticipated by Republic.

Sue lives with her husband, Henry, and their two young sons in Monrovia.

Aboretum Viewing Of Queen Ann Cottage

For the first time in two years, the interior of the Queen Anne Cottage of the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum in Arcadia will be open to the public Sunday, December 7 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"A Victorian Christmas" is the theme of the tour sponsored by Las Voluntarias, a support group of the Arboretum. Costumed hostesses, members of Las Voluntarias, will be present to answer questions and to guide the public through the facility.

The Queen Anne Cottage (the name refers to the style of architecture) will be decorated for Christmas much the way it might have been when Lucky Baldwin lived on the arboretum site.

In 1881 Mr. Baldwin commissioned architect A. A. Bennett, who also designed the State Capitol in Sacramento, to build a residence for Baldwin's wife, Jennie. She died before it was completed, and the cottage was then used as a guest house until Mr. Baldwin's death in 1909.

The Christmas decor of both the Santa Anita Depot and the Hugo Reid Adobe offer a sharp contrast to the opulence of the Queen Anne Cottage. The Depot is open for public tours on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Arboretum admission fee will be in effect throughout the holidays. The $1 fee to tour the Queen Anne Cottage will be used to continue restoration of the building.

Council Rules For Restaurant

showing pictorially present conditions at the structure and the uses to be made of the proposed addition.

Further details regarding the addition are reported elsewhere in the News.

Clifton informed the council the cost of the addition is hoped to be raised by private means rather than tax dollars.

One part of the fund drive will be the sale for $1 of buttons similar to the one shown here.

Other premiums will be given for larger donations.

In his narrative, Clifton noted the first public library in Sierra Madre cost $3000 and that the present library, built in 1955, cost $60,000. It is a 7000-square foot building.

The proposed addition will be 450 square feet but its estimated cost is $39,000.

About a dozen Sierra Madreans were on hand to hear the report to the council on cable television given by James Ryder, chairman of the city's cable TV study committee, and Steve Burley, system manager, for TelePrompTer in Sierra Madre.

Ryder explained that the Federal Communications Commission equipment studied the reception at seven different locations throughout the city when it was here earlier this month.

Ryder stated that a request for a copy of the results of the FCC investigation will be made shortly. He thanked Burley for the full cooperation given by Burley and TelePrompTer in working with the study committee.

Ryder urged any citizen having cable TV problems to call TelePrompTer directly furnishing the nature of the problem and the caller's telephone number and address. In addition, Ryder asked that a record of the problem be made and turned into City Hall. Once a week, these complaints are turned over to TelePrompTer.

Burley thanked both Ryder and the city for their cooperation in the investigation. He said the FCC report coming back will be very fair to both his company and to the city.

Among citizens speaking up at the hearing, Bob Denney stated the quality of reception with the existing cable system is well below industry standards. Marjorie Yankie stated that where she lived the residents were "at the mercy of cable TV." She said they could get no TV reception without the cable.

Concluding the discussion of cable TV, Burley said his company had to respond to the FCC within 10 days of the receipt of its report and make any necessary corrections within 60 days thereafter.

Burley stated he would like to meet with the council after the FCC report is received to explain to the city group exactly what will be done to correct the problems. The date tentatively set is January 13, 1981.

A permanent home for the building of the city's entry in the annual Rose Parade also received attention by the council.

A specific location for the building was not approved but a resolution apparently approving a location somewhere in the city yards was passed. Councilman Clem Bartolai opposed the motion because of its vagueness.

Prior to its action, the council heard Sam Simpson, chairman of the City Yard's Committee, suggest waiting until the city's float committee has raised the money for the building before deciding upon its location.

He said, "I'm sure the council will find a place for the building."

Roy Estoppey, president of the Sierra Madre Rose Float Association, countered by saying, "We don't want to have the money for the building and not have a place for it. Please tell us where we can put the building before we raise the money."

A clean-up of the city yards was approved by the council, with plans to use youngsters during their Christmas vacation from school. A maximum cost for the clean-up was set at $1000 with some or all of the expense to be paid for by sale of surplus equipment and metal collected during the clean-up.

come a residential development.

The citizen's advisory committee appointed by the board recommended, however, that the site be leased for institutional purposes. The latter appears to have the strong backing of School Superintendent Ramon Cortines.

He advised the board last Tuesday that he had arranged for a meeting with officials of Maranatha School and said, "I have encouraged the contact with Maranatha."

During the board's discussion of Sierra Mesa, it was noted the board could lease the facility for up to five years with an option to renew without any special public notice.

Stephanie J. Austin, project director of Institutional Management Consultants suggested the board establish a committee to review all recommendations made to it for the use of Sierra Mesa and other surplus sites.

GIVING CITY NEW STRIPES — Richard Davis, senior traffic painter with Los Angeles County, and Daniel Lopez, road laborer, were in town last week painting the town — yellow and white. They spent two days repainting crosswalks "to protect school children and other pedestrians," according to Davis. Davis has been working for 14 years to "keep towns safe" and Lopez has been with L.A. County for four months.

Knotts Family Fare

Because Thanksgiving is traditionally a time when the entire family, from toddler to teen to granparent, is gathered together, Knott's Berry Farm offers a weekend of diversified entertainment from November 27 through 30, with Emmett Kelly Jr.'s Circus, The Teen Beat Tour starring Scott Baio, Lou Ferrigno and Paul Land, country western stars Freddie Hart and Becky Hobbs and a great Thanksgiving dinner, literally something for everyone, regardless of age.

Santa Claus will arrive in style at Knott's on Saturday, November 29, at noon in a grand holiday parade led by Grand Marshall Emmett Kelly Jr. and a 76-piece marching band. Santa will then be at home to young visitors in his igloo in Knott's Winter Wonderland area daily through December 24.

Today, Thanksgiving day, Knott's Steak House will be serving up turkey dinners with all the trimmings from 11 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Hours for Thanksgiving vacation at Knott's are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday, 10 a.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday and 10 a.m. to 8 pm. Sunday.
